PRODUCT DESIGN, YEAR 2/3, SEMESTER 4/5

ARNHEM

Product Design Exchange students are welcome in the 2nd & 3rd year.

Product Design welcomes students from international partner universities. Students are assigned to specially developed programs that align with their ambitions and their choice for Product Design. As the department highly values the design process, students get ample time to study actively by working in the workshops and collaborate on projects, as well as carry out individual ones. The product design program is dynamic, has vision, and is forever looking for new initiatives; in other words, it changes regularly. The program is varied and Exchange students follow a customized program. This program comprises of a combination of subjects from the 2nd and 3rd year. Each semester a packet of modules is offered, with a total of 30 ECTS.

We believe this department to be more than merely a place for education: we aim to function as a laboratory for experimenting with the future. We help our students develop their own vision on life and explore, evoke and build new dimensions of design practice and theory. The program is focused on individual and/or collaborative practices, informed by contemporary issues and developed through an ongoing process of modelling, experimentation, analysis and critique.

Individually as well as in groups, students approach a diverse range of topics, products, concerns and interests from their own perspectives. Ambition, craft and expertise are key aspects of the program, though its essence lies in understanding and reinterpreting materials, designs and research. The department guides students in gaining the skills and credibility needed to develop their work in line with their passions and goals, as well as work methods, an inquisitive approach and a thorough knowledge of design.

Exchange is possible in semester 1 (September to December) and semester 2 (January to June). Definite start and end dates will be provided before the start of your exchange.
